

Poines. Good morrow sweet Hal. What saies Monsieur Remorse? What saies Sir John Sacke and Sugar: Iacke? How agrees the Diuell and thee about thy Soule, that thou soldst him on Good-Friday last, for a Cup of Madera, and a cold Capons legge?

Prin. Sir John stands to his word, the diuell shall haue his bargaine, for he was neuer yet a Breaker of Prouerbs: He will gine the diuell his due.

Poin. Then art thou damn'd for keeping thy word with the diuell.

Prin. Else he had damn'd for cozening the diuell.

Poy. But my Lads, my Lads, to morrow morning, by foure a clocke early at Gads hill, there are Pilgrimes going to Canterbury with rich Offerings, and Traders riding to London with fat Purfes. I haue vizards for you all; you haue horses for your selues: Gads-hill lyes to night in Rochester, I haue bespoken Supper to morrow in Eastcheape; we may doe it as secure as sleepers: if you will go, I will stuffe your Purfes full of Crownes: if you will not, tarry at home and be hang'd.

Fal. Heare ye Yedward, if I tarry at home and go not, Ile hang you for going.

Poy. You will chops.

Fal. Hal, wilt thou make one?

Prin. Who, I rob? I a Theefe? Not I.

Fal. There's neither honesty, manhood, nor good fellowship in thee, nor thou cam'st not of the blood-royall, if thou dar'st not stand for ten shillings.

Prin. Well then, once in my dayes Ile be a mad-cap.

Fal. Why, that's well said.

Prin. Well, come what will, Ile tarry at home.

Fal. Ile be a Traitor then, when thou art King.

Prin. I care not.

Poy. Sir John, I prythee leaue the Prince & me alone, I will lay him downe such reasons for this aduerture, that he shall go.

Fal. Well, maist thou haue the Spirit of perswasion; and he the eares of profitting, that what thou speakest, may moue; and what he heares may be beleueed, that the true Prince, may (for recreation sake) proue a false theefe; for the poore abuses of the time, want countenance. Farwell, you shall finde me in Eastcheape.

Prin. Farwell the latter Spring. Farewell Alhollown Summer.

Poy. Now, my good sweet Hony Lord, ride with vs to morrow. I haue a iest to execute, that I cannot manage alone. Falstaffe, Harvey, Rossill, and Gads-hill, shall robbe those men that wee haue already way-layde, your selfe and I, will not be there: and when they haue the booty, if you and I do not rob them, cut this head from my shoulders.

Prin. But how shal we part with them in setting forth?

Poy. Why, we will set forth before or after them, and appoint them a place of meeting, wherein it is at our pleasure to faile; and then will they aduerture vpon the exploit themselves, which they shall haue no sooner atchieued, but wee'll set vpon them.

Prin. I, but tis like that they will know vs by our horses, by our habits, and by euery other appointment to be our selues.

Poy. Tut our horses they shall not see, Ile tie them in the wood, our vizards wee will change after wee leaue them: and sirrah, I haue Cafes of Buckram for the nonce, to immaske our noted outward garments.

Prin. But I doubt they will be too hard for vs.

Poy. Well, for two of them, I know them to bee as true bred Cowards as euer turn'd backe: and for the third if he fight longer then he sees reason, Ile forswear Armes. The vertue of this iest will be, the incomprehensible lyes, that this fat Rogue will tell vs, when wee meete at Supper: how thirty at least he fought with, what Wardes, what blowes, what extremities he endured; and in the reproofe of this, lyes the iest.

Prin. Well, Ile goe with thee, prouide vs all things necessary, and meete me to morrow night in Eastcheape, there Ile sup. Farewell.

Poy. Farewell, my Lord.

Prin. I know you all, and will a-while vphold the vnyoak'd humor of your idlenesse:

Yet heerein will I imitate the Sunne, Who doth permit the base contagious cloudes To smother vp his Beauty from the world, That when he please againe to be himselfe, Being wanted, he may be more wondred at, By breaking through the foule and vgly mists Of vapours, that did seeme to strangle him. If all the year were playing holidays, To sport, would be as tedious as to worke; But when they ieldome come, they wisht-for come, And nothing pleaseth but rare accidents. So when this loose behaviour I throw off, And pay the debt I neuer promised; By how much better then my word I am, By so much shall I falsifie mens hopes, And like bright Mettall on a sullen ground: My reformation glittering o're my fault, Shall shew more goodly, and attract more eyes, Then that which hath no foyle to set it off. Ile so offend, to make offence a skill, Redeeming time, when men thinke least I will.

Scena Tertia.

Enter the King, Northumberland, Worcester, Hotspur, Sir Walter Blunt, and others.

King. My blood hath bene too cold and temperate, Vnapt to stirre at these indignities, And you haue found me; for accordingly, You tread vpon my patience: But be sure, I will from henceforth rather be my Selfe, Mighty, and to be fear'd, then my condition Which hath bene smooth as Oyle, soft as yong Downe, And therefore lost that Title of respect, Which the proud soule ne're payes, but to the proud.

Wor. Our house (my Soueraigne Liege) little deserues The scourge of greatnesse to be vsed on it, And that same greatnesse too, which our owne hands Haue holpe to make so portly.

Nor. My Lord.

King. Worcester get thee gone: for I do see Danger and disobedience in thine eye. O sir, your presence is too bold and peremptory, And Maiestie might neuer yet endure The moody Frontier of a seruants brow, You haue good leaue to leaue vs. When we need Your vse and counsell, we shall send for you. You were about to speake.

Nor. Yea, my good Lord.

Those Prisoners in your Highnesse demanded, Which Harry Percy heere at Holmesden tooke, Were (as he sayes) not with such strength denied: As was deliuered to your Maiesty a while agoe: Who either through enuy, or misprision, I yet know not, Was guilty of this fault; and not my Sonne, who I haue

Hot. My Liege, I did deny no Prisoners: But I remember when the fight was done, and I was dry with Rage, and extreame Toyle, When I was dry with Rage, and extreame Toyle, Breathlesse, and Faint, leaning vpon my Sword, Came there a certaine Lord, neat and trimly drest, Fresh as a Bride-groome, and his Chin new reapt, Shew'd like a stubble Land at Harriet home.

He was perfum'd like a Milliner, And 'twixt his Finger and his Thumbe, he held A Pouncet-box; which euer and anon he did

He gaue his Nose, and tookt away againe: Who therewith angry, when it next came there, Tooke it in Snuffe. And still he smil'd and talk'd, And as the Souldiers bare dead bodies by, He call'd them vnto him, and

To bring a flowerly vnhandsome Coarse Betwixt the Winde, and his Nobility: With many Holiday and Lady teame, He question'd me: Among the rest, demanded

My Prisoners, in your Maiesties behalfe. I then, all-smarting, with my wounds being cold, (To be so pester'd with a Poppingay) Out of my Greefe, and my Impatience, Answer'd (neglectingly) I know not what,

He should, or should not: For he made me mad, To see him shine so briske, and smell so sweet, And talke so like a Waiting-Gentlewoman, Of Guns, & Drums, and Wounds: God shue the marke; And telling me, the Soueraign'st thing on earth

Was Paracitty, for an inward bruise: And that it was great pity, so it was, That villanous Salt-peter should be digg'd Out of the Bowels of the harmlesse Earth,

Which many a good Tall Fellow had destroy'd, So Cowardly. And but for these vile Gunnes, He would himselfe haue bene a Souldier.

This bald, vniointed Chat of his (my Lord) Made me to answer indirectly (as I said.) And I beseech you, let not this report Come current for an Accusation.

Between my Love, and your high Maiesty. Blunt. The circumstance considered, good my Lord, What euer Harry Percy then had said, To such a person, and in such a place, At such a time, with all the rest retold, May reasonably dye, and neuer rise To do him wrong, or any way impeach

What then he said, so he vnlay it now. King. Why yet doth deny his Prisoners, But with Prouiso and Exception, That we at our owne charge, shall ransom straight: His Brother-in-Law, the foolish Mortimer, Who (in my soule) hath wilfully betray'd

The liues of those, that he did leade to Fight, Against the great Magician, damn'd Glendower, Whose daughter (as we heare) the Earle of March Hath lately married. Shall our Coffers then Be emptied, to redeeme a Traitor home? Shall we buy Treason, and indent with Feares, When they haue lost and forfeited themselves?

No: on the barren Mountaine let him sterue: For I shall neuer hold that man my Friend, Whose tongue shall aske me for one peny cost.

To ransom home revolted Mortimer. Hot. Revolted Mortimer? He neuer did fall off, my Soueraigne Liege, But by the chance of Warre: to proue that true, Needs no more but one tongue. For all those Wounds, Those mouthed Wounds, which valiantly he tooke, When on the gentle Seuernes siedgie banke, In single Opposition hand to hand, He did confound the best part of an house: In changing hardiment with great Glendower: Three times they breath'd, and three times did they drink Vpon agreement, of swift Seuernes flood; Who then affrighted with their bloody lookes, Ran fearefully among the trembling Reeds, And hid his crispe head in the hollow banke, Blood-stained with these Valiant Combatants. Neuer did base and rotten Policy Colour her working with such deadly wounds, Nor neuer could the Noble Mortimer Receiue so many, and all willingly: Then let him not be stand red with Reuolt.

King. Thou dost bely him Percy, thou dost bely him: He neuer did encounter with Glendower: I tell thee, he durst as well haue met the diuell alone, As Owen Glendower for an enemy.

Art thou not alham'd? But sirrah, henceforth Let me not heare you speake of Mortimer. Send me your Prisoners with the speediest meanes, Or you shall heare in such a kinde from me As will displease ye. My Lord Northumberland, We license your departure with your sonne, Send vs your Prisoners, or you'll heare of it. Exit King.

Hot. And if the diuell come and roare for them I will not fend them. I will after straight And tell him so: for I will ease my heart, Although it be with hazard of my head.

Nor. What? drunke with choller? stay & pause awhile, Heere comes your Vnckle. Enter Worcester.

Hot. Speake of Mortimer? Yes, I will speake of him, and let my soule Want mercy, if I do not ioyne with him. In his behalfe, Ile empty all these Veines, And shed my deere blood drop by drop in dust, But I will lift the downfall Mortimer As high as Ayre, as this Vnthankfull King, As this Ingrate and Cankred Bullingbrooke.

Nor. Brother, the King hath made your Nephew mad. Wor. Who strooke this heate vp after I was gone? Hot. He will (forsooth) haue all my Prisoners: And when I'veg'd the ransom once againe Of my Wiues Brother, then his cheekes look'd pale, And on my face he turn'd an eye of death, Trembling euen at the name of Mortimer.

Wor. I cannot blame him: was he not proclaim'd By Richard that dead is, the next of blood? Nor. He was: I heard the Proclamation, And then it was, when the vnhappy King (Whose wrongs in vs God pardon) did set forth Vpon his Irish Expedition: From whence he intercepted, did returne To be depos'd, and shortly murdered.

Wor. And for whose death we in the worlds wide mouth Liue scandaliz'd, and foully spoken of.

Hot.
